

List of Scenarios: GENERAL COMMUNITY

1. You are greeting your elderly mother who lives far away in another city. You were just informed (while being picked up at the airport by your sister) that Mother had gotten married last month to someone you'd never heard of.
2. Your tenant, whom you suspect to be addicted to alcohol, says to you, "I know I am behind a month on rent. I'm short on cash, but I'll get it to you real soon, okay?"
3. You are about to meet a friend for tea when your disabled father calls asking you to pick up some groceries for him.
4. It is late at night. You and your partner are sitting at the kitchen table, deeply engrossed in discussion over an emotional issue. Suddenly your six-year old appears at the door and declares, "I'm not sleepy. I want to know what you're talking about."
5. You and a friend have been in contact nearly daily. During the last week, however, this friend neither called nor returned your calls. You are shopping at the mall and spot your friend.
6. You are buying fish at the market and notice that salmon steaks cost considerably more than whole salmon. You would like a whole fish cut into steaks and to pay the same price as you would pay for the whole salmon.
7. You are exhausted and looking forward to the weekend. Your colleague approaches, asking you to cover for them this weekend because they just got invited to a large family celebration.